So, the prayer of the upright that delights God comes from a heart that at first feels precarious in the presence of God. It trembles at the hearing of God's word, because it feels so far from God's ideal and so vulnerable to his judgment and so helpless and so sorry for its failings. This is just what David said in Psalm 51:17, "The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit; a broken and contrite heart, O God, you will not despise."
